Technological change is moving so quickly. This seminar will discuss evidence from research that investigated the online behaviours of children and young people and actions parents and other members of the school community can take to protect and enhance their own and their children's digital lives (and reputations) and to minimise possible cyber-related harms from their interactions in an online environment. It will also include information related to children's brain development and how spending time online may enhance and inhibit aspects of children's social and emotional development.

Presenter — Professor Donna Cross

Donna Cross is a Professor with the Faculty of Medicine, Dentistry and Health Sciences at the University of Western Australia and the Telethon Kids Institute. She is the Head of Health Promotion and Education Research and Director of the Early Childhood Development and Learning Collaboration. Donna currently leads 11 research projects investigating ways to enhance young people's health and wellbeing, especially among vulnerable school-age children.
