

Education Assistants

Supporting Students with Autism Spectrum Disorder
November 2016

Autism Spectrum Disorder is a life-long developmental disability that affects the individual's understanding and interpretation of the world around them. Such a disability may cause students to have difficulty with social interaction, communication, behaviour and sensory inputs. Having a greater understanding of the difficulties faced by students will enable all educators to better meet the needs of the students in their care.

From this session you will:

- ◇ Build on current knowledge and understanding
- ◇ Learn about evidence based practices
- ◇ Gain a greater understanding of the nature of ASD
- ◇ Learn to identify the characteristics and issues for students with ASD and
- ◇ Develop strategies, modifications and adaptations to meet the needs of students with ASD.
